The Standing Committee on Statutory Instruments has the honour to present its

SECOND REPORT

Your Committee is working under an Order of Reference which stipulates in part, "That a Standing Committee on Statutory Instruments be established to review all regulations as they are published".

This results in a situation where the Committee may be examining and making recommendations with respect to published regulations while the Administration is independently preparing revisions to the regulations. In some instances draft regulations may already have been circulated to some segments of the general public for comment. Your Committee feels that it is pointless for its Order of Reference to prohibit it from reviewing any proposed regulations.

Your Committee respectfully recommends that its Order of Reference be expanded to include the review of any proposed regulations.
